A Gentle Horsemanship Message from Doc

February 22, 2018

What is Gentle Horsemanship?

"What I have come to call Gentle Horsemanship is actually a set of principles, an ethical code, for interacting with horses. It is based upon commitment to using only gentle, nonviolent techniques, and upon accepting personal responsibility for the comfort and behavior of our horses. Gentle Horsemanship professes that horses effectively reflect our attitudes, actions, reactions, and behaviors - and that to change theirs we must first reshape ours"

"Gentle Horsemanship involves communicating in the language of horses and using their logic, rather than expecting them to use ours.

It respects their inherent nature as horses and adjusts to accommodate individual personalities and personal histories. Gentle Horsemanship presents horses with options and rewards them for choosing to be with us, willingly cooperating, and doing as we ask, rather than being forced and punished. It takes commitment, self-discipline, and time, but anyone can learn and successfully apply the principles and techniques of Gentle Horsemanship." Doc Hammill
